Brand Foundation

Woman's Wrench is not a repair shop.

It is not a lifestyle brand.

It is not an influencer brand.

It is not a "women can do it too" novelty concept.

Woman's Wrench exists to prove that competence has no gender.

The brand represents a self-taught female automotive technician who learned by doing, failing, troubleshooting, researching, rebuilding, and solving problems that others could not.

The brand stands for technical competence, practical education, independence, persistence, and confidence.

The message is simple:

You do not need permission to learn how your vehicle works.

Woman's Wrench teaches people to understand, diagnose, repair, and maintain their own vehicles while building confidence through knowledge and hands-on experience.

Brand Archetype

Primary Archetype: The Craftsman

Secondary Archetype: The Teacher

Supporting Archetype: The Rebel

Woman's Wrench challenges the assumption that automotive repair belongs to a specific gender or background.

The brand teaches people how to become capable rather than dependent.

Visual Identity

Overall Aesthetic

Vintage American automotive.

Old service stations.

Machine shops.

Tool trucks.

Industrial signage.

Trade unions.

Garage culture.

Classic racing patches.

Work uniforms.

The aesthetic should feel:

- Worn
- Trusted
- Experienced
- Earned

Nothing should feel trendy or temporary.

Logo Philosophy

The logo should look like it belongs:

- On a mechanic's shirt
- On a toolbox
- On a lift post
- On a tool truck
- On a shop wall
- On a racing jacket
- On a welding cabinet

Not like a beauty brand.

Not like Etsy merchandise.

Not like influencer apparel.
